1 57 months, which we believe is the proper high end of the
2 guidelines range, as does the probation office, which calculated
3 it.

4 Your Honor, this Court knows, as well as anyone, that, you
5 know, every day at this point we read the newspaper, watch the
6 news on TV, and we learn about one, often more than one, tragedy
7 that occurs because someone who isn't allowed to have firearms
8 under the law has firearms, uses firearms, injures other people.

9 THE COURT: You know, frankly, I disagree with you. I
10 don't think the felon-in-possession law accomplishes very much.
11 What we need to do in this country is get the guns off the 12 street, and, of course, we don't have the will to do that.

13 MR. GREENBERG: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: But I don't see the relationship between the 15 felon-in-possession law and what's going on in this country, in 16 terms of the bloodbath that we're experiencing.

17 MR. GREENBERG: Well, I share the Court's frustration.
18 It's certainly not the panacea that we need, but --

19 THE COURT: It's what we have.

20 MR. GREENBERG: -- it's what we have.

21 And I guess my point was going to be that what also gets me
22 frustrated is that these laws, how useful you think they are or 23 not, end up being controversial in some quarters, and what I was 24 going to say is that I think this case, at least, is an example
25 where everyone would agree that this is an individual who was
